* THUKING OF YOU. I thought my heart had grown cold, And to loving had sighed it adies; but in spite of myself and of fate, I ani often times thinking of you,

The language of passion is sweet, and it falls on the soul like the dew. But I know it but lures to deceive— Then why am I thinking of you?

Could I sy from this wilderness world To a heart that was loving and true; tould I live all my life by your side, I would live and die thinking of you,

It is a great wonder that the news-papers have not already taken up the present subject of street gossip in the metropolis.

The subject of this flutter is young Bennett, whose father established the Herald. He has been flying around Europe and Northern Africa for the months past, ingratiating himself into the good graces of all the leading crowned heads of the Old World.

Bennett has cherished a fondness for one of the daughters of Christain IX. of Denmark, and for the purpose of paving one of the daughters of Christain IX. of Denmark, and for the purpose of paving his way to the haughty old *i ma, he has shrewily managed the European department of the Hernili in order to impress the great influence of his news paper more firmly upon the old man's mind.

And to still further stamp the greatness and power of the New York establishment, he determined to make plain a mystery that had been a problem which for years the whole world had failed to solve. The story of the lost Livingstone and his discovery is yet fresh in the

and his discovery is yet fresh in the minds of the community. Bennett's fame was then flourished to the world, fame was then dourshed to the world, and not only King Christian but the crownest heads of Continental Europe looked upon young Bennett as a potentale far more powerful than any of their kind. The discovery of Livingstone was his masterpiece, and broke down the last barrier between himself and every court of Continental Europe.

Bennett's infatuation for the young princess is said to be intense, he having frincess is said to be included in a many first met her in Berlin four years ago. Since then he has been spending much of his time in Europe, always within hearing distance of the throne of Denmark. Why Benntt has been acting so circumspectly is this: King Christian is a circumspectly is this: King Christian is a circumspectly in this control of the the days when the Princess Dowager of Schleswig-Holstein Noes, the daughter of a Boston merchant named Ray, falled to obtain recognition as a Princess of the royal Davish family at the hands of the royal Davish family at the hands of the King, together with the recent ex-citement in the Danish Court upon hear-ing the news of the marriage of the Mar-quis of Lorne in England, young Ben-nett acting under the advice of the most prominent men of the Old World, with-held his proposition. But a few weeks, however, before Bennett's mother died, he was introduced to King Christian, and now it is stated upon the best authority that the marriage has been agreed upon.

The Shooting of Mrs. Spencer.

The Virginia Evening Chronicle of the 23d contains the following account of the shooting of Mrs. Spencer in Seven-mile Canyon by her jealous husband.

About 7 o'clock last evening a fearful About 7 o'clock last evening a fearful tragedy was enacted in Seven-mile Canyon, at the Mariposa mill boarding house. Our reporter, shortly after the occurrence, was on the spot, and found that the lady was being attended by Rev. Father Manogue and Dr. F. H. Engels. The facts gleaned by him were as follows: Mr. Spencer, who has not been living with his wife for nearly three years, last night risited the boarding-house kent by Mrs. Spencer, (who his is assisted last night visited the boarding-house kept by Mrs. Spencer (who is assisted by her mother and sister) and without saying a word, made one step across the threshhold, deliberately aimed and shot his wife in the left temple. Mrs. Spencer was at the time sitting at the supper table, and was not aware of his murderous intentions. As soon as the shot had taken effect she jumped from the table and screamed, falling back toward the table, the edge of which struck her near the pistol wound and produced a contusion. Two of the boarders who had just finished supper jumped toward the sion. Two of the contacts who man just finished supper jumped toward the would-be assassin, disarmed him, and brought him to the County Jail, when he was turned over to Sheriff Atkiuson and confined. The cause of the rash act and confined. The cause of the rash act is unknown, but it is supposed to be caused by imaginable jealousy on his part, but which has no foundation in fact. Mrs. Spencer is a hard working woman, and is keeping the Maripoa Mill boarding house in Seven-soile Canyon. Shortly after her marriage to Spencer she learned that he was worthless, indoshe learned that he was worthless, indo-lent and intemperate, and contributed nothing toward her support, and she was obliged to support herself and aged mothed by keeping a boarding house. We learn to-day, through her medical attendant, Dr. F. H. Engells, that she is as comfortable as could be expected, and that there is a possibility of her re-covery, the only danger being from in-flammation. His case will probably come before the Grand Jury to-morrow.
